LIFE ASSURANCE.

A SUBJECT of the highest importance to the present and future of the consideration of all. Based upon sound and scientific principles, a most regular steady dividend is made to the policyholder, and every one may secure a large return, which in the case of the poor, is provision for such as are dependent on them, and for family comfort and debt; in the case of the rich may be applied as a legacy.

 READING FOR THE BOYS.
 It is well remarked by the North British Reviewer, that one of the problems which remain to be solved, before we can get the most out of a working boy, will be, how to grow to be a man. The sons of poor parents are usually taken from school before they are fit to be put to work to earn something. The brief interval

"Do you remember last summer, Mary, when you were away at Mrs. Brookes' school?"

"Yes, mother!"

"You told me then, that when you put a letter from home, you used to read it over and over till it was almost worn out."

"Yes, mother, I think you read that letter over."

"You knew all that thar was in it?"

"Yes, mother, I think I know it all now. I think about home and you and father."

"Yes, my dear, I read over some parts of it."

"Before, for I have read over some of the letters from home, and I think I know all of my home, of my heavenly Father, my Mother, and of what He wishes me to do."

"I believe you know too, mother!" said little Mary.

"Shall you take me to school?"

COUNT BATHYANY ON SECTARIAN CHARITY.

The following is a copy of a letter from Count Bathyany to Mr. H. Wellington Vallance, a member of the Court of Common Council:—

Highland, N.Y., 18, 1897.

My DEAR SIR: I have been thinking of you, and of the friends of the Watch and Penny and Register to see in the leading article of this day's Morning Post, what was the so-called paradox of Cardinal Manning's sermon, in which he said that certain number of people, who call themselves Christians, to refrain from joining the ranks of the non-resistance party, in relieving the sufferers in India. Understanding that you are on the Indian Relief Committee, I beg to enquire, my dear friend, whether you are not more at present, although a Catholic, non-resistance? I should be very sorry if my friends, who are non-resistance in principle, should be misled by the subjects who withheld such aid as they could afford from their fellow creatures, under the misapprehension of their peculiar religious tenets. I am, my dear friend, a subscriber, and subscription policy, as a protest against "notarian hypocrisy," and believe

The Wallington Vandal, Eng., writes:

"The Montreal Herald, with reference to the above, has the following:-

"Look upon those three pictures and you will see—We publish, this morning, a most interesting account of the efforts of the illustrious Mr. Gladstone for the extension of civil liberty, in Committee of Privileges, at the instance of Sir John Lubbock's letter to Mr. Valance. The following—detestable, un-Catholic, un-Christian, and blood-thirsty cut-throat to the noble Australian's letter we cut from the Globe's edition of Thursday last—the italics are ours."

Who sympathizes with the brigand in life-death, throb, or plies the murderer flagging with the vivifications of the law? Who would have the world's eyes riveted on their interests the English East India Company have been both personally and by their

it was a question for which—even with sympathizing walls—this community ought to be grateful.

So much as that (the crux) system has been perverted and abused, its total extinction would be, at this time, a serious loss to the country. It should be allowed to gradually—and imperceptibly absorb the cash system. That absorption may take place; and in proportion as it progresses will the country thrive; progress in the establishment of trade intercourse can be sound and enduring base.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE MAGISTRACY OF WELLAND COUNTY
WITH REFERENCE TO McHENRY TOWNSHIP.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 1ST, 1884.
BY JAMES H. BROWN, CLERK.

The Chairman read the requisition of the Clerk of the Peace, asking him if he had anything further to say for the public before the meeting was closed.

The Chairman said that he had signed by Donald McFarland and John McCoppin, Esquires, of Port Robinson.

Mr. McFarland said that he was one of the signers of the requisition. He said that he had given notice of the meeting at a man had called one night and demanded the prisoner Townsend. The men however, proved to be in a state of intoxication, or apparently so. Nevertheless, they were taken to the police station, and reports of that kind were made. This Bench might request the Government to remove the prisoner, or ing to be published.

Several Magistrates expressed the opinion that the article had resulted from a plot, and our reporter was allowed to remain.

Sheriff Hobson said, that when he first saw the article, he was not aware of its contents, but that he had been told by him that a man had come to the building on the night between 12 and 1 o'clock. Mr. Lawrence raised the window, when he muttered something about a prisoner.

Mr. Hobson then produced a warrant, a prisoner and warrant of commitment, and ordered him to go round to the door.

He did so, and was met there by Mr. Lawrence, who asked him what prisoner he had brought.

He answered, that he had brought a man who was going to leave him out of there before to-morrow morning. The man appeared

The New York Herald contains some valuable remarks upon the two commercial systems and the advantages which each system possesses.

"Those who are obedient of the times," says the paper, "and whose claims are being brought about by the financial revolution, cannot fail to perceive that, while the credit system is falling to pieces, the cash system will flourish."

At the Chicago office showed that the credit operations amounted, in this city alone, in one day, to the enormous sum of 25,000,000—the sudden contraction by the Federal Reserve had reduced that figure to 12,000,000. The latter figure was assumed that the diminution thus noticed has been going on ever since, and that a figure one-third less than $12,000,000 would now show the daily credit transactions in business in this city. At the same time the

Mr. Lawrence corroborated the statements of the Sheriff. Flinders, when in the prisoner's cell, promised to do his best for him, but said it might take two months for to get him (the prisoner) out. The prisoner had said to him (the gaoler), "What is to keep me here if I should get you down when you open the door?" He heard many stories communicated to him confidentially, of a Justice of the Peace.

the prisoner, and investigating the prisoner's identity. If the prisoner really was Townsend, every person would admit that he ought to be punished; if he was not, he certainly should not suffer for the crime of which he was accused, and it would be a relief to the public mind to learn the truth of the matter.

Sturges Hefson said, that Judge Draper had said he would recommend the Government to be merciful to him, and to let him go to the places where he said he had been.

Several Magistrates spoke on this point, when it appeared that the prisoner did not desire any assistance, and the matter was dropped.

The meeting then adjourned sine die.

THE RESULT OF THE PANIC.

A summary of the fallacies and errors of the Administration of Lincoln by the St. Lawrence Convention, and the results, through the commerce of the Press, shows the advantages of the St. Lawrence route, over that of New York, to importers from Europe; and we judge that the Convention will contain additional testimony, the substance of which we have before recorded. It is from the Convention that we learn that, after stating that they had shipped for Mr. Haffner of Chicago, by the propeller Harford, one of the St. Lawrence line, a cargo of one hundred barrels of porter, which had just arrived direct from England the day previous, and that they had shipped in shipping this article of commerce to Chicago, via Montreal, will enable the party to realize a much better profit than if it had come via New York or New York. The same advantages of course attend all articles of mere between the Northwest and Europe. The fact that the St. Lawrence route is the highway for the commerce of Europe and

The total value of all these are estimated at $80,000,000.

The extent to which the grain crisis has affected the movement of produce towards the tide-water may be ascertained by consulting the following list of flour, corn and barley, let at tide-water, during the third week in October, in the years 1836 and 1837, is as follows:—

THE CLERGY AND REFRACTORY

AMERICAN CONVENTIONS IN CONCORD.—The following paragraph, from a Wendell paper, should be a warning to municipal officials.

the Parish of St. Dominick has been closed by order of the Bishop, who refused to supply the altar with a consecrated host. The parishioners, being poor, cannot maintain another church on a more magnificent scale, as the Bishop wants them to do. The parishioners were very much incensed, and intended to demand a general assembly, but the Rev. Father gave them the excellent advice to follow the example of the Christian of the Primitive Church, by selecting their own, open, priest, and settling their church on their own terms. Nothing is more easy, and you will hereby save yourselves much trouble, and spare your purses. In the meantime, as you do not yet exist, no one is authorized to condemn you. The Rev. Father said that he had died since the church was closed, his father, Austin di Lapointe, went to the cemetery and dug a grave for his child, but the father never returned, and the child never came.

He asked for his authorization or advice. He did so, and the Bishop told Lapointe to tell his child in his own words, and that he would write him (the Bishop) again when the child was to be baptized. The father may dig out the story to be opened, the Bishop says the church is to be opened, the child and have it decently buried in the cemetery. It is evidently very desirable that the Legislature should pass some law about funerals to prevent the recurrence of such a scandalous situation. The people should have the right to bury their dead in a decent manner.

GOODS WANTED FOR SALE.

PNEUMOLOGICAL EXAMINATIONS. Gilvray's Practical Pneumology, 245 pages, cloth, 50 cents. This is a new edition of a well-known and useful treatise, and is especially applicable to the influence of climate on the health of the individual. It contains chapters on Weakness, Debility, Indications of Youth, and Nervous Complaints.

CLIMATE. Gilvray's enables us to see more clearly the cause of all our sufferings and infirmities. It enables us to see the cause of our ailments, and to apply the most proper remedies. It teaches us to recommend and advise those means which will effect a cure, and to avoid those which would do harm. Other countries have failed. It also enables us to see the most innocent, safe, and certain means of curing our ailments, and of restoring our health. It has been uniformly discovered, that all, whose fond hopes have been crushed, and whose spirits have been broken, are suffering and declining; go to never failing.

BOARDING ROUND.

From the Montreal Journal of Education.

At sixteen, with a valiant heart,

The little did I know,

That I was young and free to roam!

The girls were different then from now,

The times were different too!

Between Trenton and Belleville,

Quite thickly they did grow!

And questions grave, and problems deep,

That their brains consumed,

They always would be kept

Till they came "boarding round."

Fathers would talk of politics,

Or church affairs proper,

And if my views were not like theirs,

A sharp dispute arose,

And some old "pious" lady and wise,

Did sometimes propose

Questions that fairly puzzled me,

When I went "boarding round."

The mothers talked of role young girls,

And of their duties here,

But always tried their best to add

Unto my earthly joys;

For I did catch the slightest cold,

And I was never free

For a good old "boarding round."

When I went "boarding round."

Long winter evenings then were passed

With laughing, joking gay,

Not did good "pious" ladies

The least that I did say;

Or if a singing school was near,

They would be sure to go,

I've often sung till I was hoarse,

When I was "boarding round."

The dinner basket, every noon,

My willing hand did bring,

And I was never free

For a good old "boarding round."

When I went "boarding round."

But now these pleasant days are gone,

Life's sunny spring time past;

The joy I found has gone by one

Into the world to rest;

My looks are growing thin and gray,

I'll soon be under ground;

Then forget not old girl,

About the "boarding round."
